ARMY TEST BEGINS

Officers Start on Annual Ride Without Mishap.

FIRST STOP AT ROCKVILLE

Thirty-five Leave Fort Myer, and All Who Fail to Withstand the Ordeal of a Ninety-mile Trip Will Be Eligible to Retirement Under the Roosevelt Scheme.

In driving rain and wind a band of silent and rather melancholy officers mounted horse at Fort Myer yesterday morning and trotted off on that unpopular "remnant" of the Roosevelt regime—the annual one hundred-mile "physical test" ride. Rarely has the cold, gray dawn seen a sadder spectacle. Appropriate secrecy marked the start, and no newspaper men could be discerned on the horizon.

There were thirty-five in the party, the majority being "desk men," on duty in the War Department. Maj. Gen. Leonard Wood, Chief of Staff, was in charge. With due ceremony they departed on their ambitious first day's programme, a thirty-mile jaunt to a point near Rockville.

Expected to Be Hazardous.

For the older guard of officers, the ride will unquestionably be difficult and hazardous. Never have conditions been more unpropitious for the test than they were yesterday. The heavy rain had muddled the roads to an extent which made them dangerous for horses at certain points, and the majority of riders had not anticipated the unexpected streak of cold weather.

Under the conditions some army men are speculating on the possibility that some officers may fall by the wayside before the three days' test is finished. Not a few of them are nearing the danger-line in point of years, and are not in the best physical condition owing to protracted "desk" service.

First Day Safely Completed.

The first day's ride, however, was completed safely and with ample time to spare. A dispatch from Rockville last evening stated that the troop had reached there at 1:30 o'clock in the afternoon. The riders had proceeded along the Condukt road, nearly to Great Falls, in order to round out the thirty-mile route. Upon arriving at the fair grounds, the officers found their tents up and all in readiness for them. They were in splendid shape to enjoy a big dinner provided for them. They spent the night in camp and this morning will start off on another thirty-mile ride to the upper end of Montgomery County, returning to Rockville to spend the night in camp. Tomorrow they will make the return trip to Fort Myer.

PUT ON HONOR ROLLS.

Five of Sixth-ninth Artillery Corps Displayed Heroism.

For heroism displayed at the fatal gun explosion at Battery De Russay, Fort Monroe, Va., July 21, the names of Sergt. Daniel D. Brinkley, Corp. John D. Humphries, Privates Charles F. Sumner and William C. Wolf, and Mechanic John Englehart, of the Sixty-ninth Company, Coast Artillery Corps, were yesterday placed upon the honor rolls of the United States War Department. The men distinguished themselves by rushing to the aid of their companions and, at the risk of their lives, putting out the burning powder and rags with their bare hands. Though seriously burned, they rescued the injured, who were at the mercy of the flames. Sergt. E. L. Deaton, 13th Company, Coast Artillery, in the same order was commended for bravery and presence of mind in preventing the explosion of a gun and possible death and injury to comrades by risking his own life to re-adjust a gun lanyard.

Mrs. Susie Giguard and Her Baby in Runaway Accident.

Special to the Washington Herald. Wytheville, Va., Oct. 7.—While Mrs. Susie Giguard, an employee in the library of Congress, in Washington, with her baby daughter and Miss Mary Lacy was driving in a buggy near here yesterday afternoon, the horse became frightened and ran away, throwing the occupants of the vehicle into a barbed wire fence. Mrs. Giguard was severely cut about the face and body, and Miss Lacy received painful lacerations. The baby escaped without a scratch.

NEW SAFETY APPLIANCES.

Joint Committee Agrees to Standards After Conference.

Fifty millions of dollars will be expended by American railway companies in installing definite standards of safety appliances on railway cars and locomotives as a result of an agreement just reached by a committee that met by invitation of the Interstate Commerce Commission.

The committee consisted of representatives of railway companies, experts of the commission, and representatives of railway operatives.

Differences of opinion developed in the committee, but agreement was reached as to all equipment to be constructed in the future except as to installing four-still steps on nonprojecting-end box cars.

The agreement reached yesterday will apply only to net equipment. The commission's order prescribing the new standards will be promulgated on October 14.

HONOR DEAD TO-DAY

Hebrews to Hold Services in Their Cemeteries.

HOLIEST DAY APPROACHING

Feast of Yom Kippur, or Day of Atonement, Will Crown Work of Penitential Season on October 13. When Special Services and Strict Fast Will Be Observed.

Memorial services for the dead, a ceremony incidental to the observance of the penitential season, will be held in the Hebrew cemeteries of the city this afternoon. Rabbi Louis I. Egelson will officiate at the cemetery of Adas Israel Synagogue at 3 o'clock, and Rabbi Abram Simon will conduct services at the cemetery of the Reform Temple Congregation.

Crowning the work of the penitential season, the Feast of Yom Kippur, or Day of Atonement, will be celebrated in the synagogues of the city on October 13. The day is the holiest in the Jewish calendar, and is observed with special services and a strict fast.

At Adas Israel Synagogue the observance of the day will begin at 6 o'clock Wednesday evening with the intonation of the "Kol Nidre," the famous traditional melody, by the cantor, Mr. Glushak. Rabbi Egelson will preach, taking for his text "Thou art the man." The sermon will deal chiefly with the creeds of orthodox Judaism. Thursday morning the services will begin at 7 o'clock, and the memorial service will be read by the rabbi at 10:30 o'clock.

Soldiers and Sailors Invited.

Rabbi Egelson has extended an invitation to soldiers and marines at Fort Myer and the Barracks to attend the services of Yom Kippur. Special services will also be held in other synagogues of the city.

The day of atonement is intended to complete the work of the penitential season, begun on the first of Tishri (New Year), by finally reconciling the soul with the Almighty. Implicitly trusting in the Divine forgiveness, the Israelite believes that his contrition, if it is really sincere, will atone for him, will make him "at one" once more with his heavenly Father.

The day, then, is devoted to a supreme effort of penitence, to a mighty endeavor after communion with the Almighty. It is spent in prayer and meditation.

Synonyms with Fasting.

It is kept, too, as a fast, in obedience to the command given in Scripture, where the expression, "afflict his soul" must be understood, as it is throughout the Bible, as synonymous with fasting.

The chief, the real aim of the day of atonement is the reformed life. All the external elements of the day's observance its worship and austerities are intended to promote this supreme purpose. The act of fasting is partly to serve as a self-imposed chastisement, and partly it has a reflex influence.

A. THORPE RYAN DEAD.

Former Resident of Washington

Victim of Blood Poisoning.

Word has just been received in this city of the death of Albert Thorpe Ryan, a native of Washington, which occurred at Wallace, Idaho, from blood poisoning, last September 12.

Mr. Ryan was born in Washington, January 5, 1873, and graduated from the High School of Washington. He later graduated from Yale, and followed with a law course at Columbia University.

He was appointed a secretary to Senator Fred T. Dubois, of Idaho, his cousin, and settled at Blackfoot.

During his residence in Idaho Mr. Ryan was identified with public affairs throughout the State.

Mrs. Ryan and her eleven-year-old daughter, who accompanied the body to Portland, where it was cremated, are now on their way to Washington. They will stay at the home of Mrs. Ryan's cousin, Mrs. Briggs, at 2538 Fourteenth street northwest.

Funeral of Rev. Dr. Chester.

A great majority of the Presbytery of Washington attended the funeral of Rev. Dr. Chester as a testimony of their admiration yesterday afternoon, which was held from the Metropolitan Church. Burial was made in Glenwood Cemetery, and was private.

MORNING CHIT-CHAT.

LETTERS OF A SUCCESSFUL BUSINESS WOMAN TO HER NIECE.

DEAR NIECE JOAN:

A girl in an office near mine has just lost a carking good position because she didn't realize that a business office wasn't either a sail boat or an afternoon tea.

The man she worked for has half a dozen stenographers and is very proud of the good tone of his office force. They are an exceptional crew of sensible and refined young business women, and he takes almost as much pride in their good manners and sensible clothes as he does in their work.

This girl was different. She was a good worker, too—good at punctuation and spelling, and a neat and accurate stenographer—but there was one thing she didn't know the A, B, C of, and that was how to dress in a business office.

One day she would appear in a Lombardy blouse with a smashing red sailor's tie, the next she'd wear an alarmingly peckaboo waist with a very Dutch neck and a flirtations showing of blue ribbons underneath, and the third she'd be toggled out in a half-soiled afternoon dress, for she was the kind of girl who thinks worn-out finery belongs in the kitchen and the office.

Then, of course, she'd always wear the trimmings to match—low-cut pumps and gossamer stockings, white gloves, big showy hats, fancy neck chains that would get caught in her typewriter—and all that sort of thing.

The employer stood it for awhile. He thought the sight of the six other girls, who always looked both charming and business-like in regular business get-ups, tailored suits and finings to match, would soon tone her down.

When it didn't he mildly suggested a more appropriate form of costume and she was vastly insulted and left in a huff.

Now, niece, of course I know that you aren't that kind; but it won't do you any harm to be reminded to keep good and plenty away from it. That man was exceptionally fussy, I know, but I've heard a good many business men talk, and I know that, while they may flatter the over-dressed girl about looking pretty, they really admire and approve of the woman who dresses in a business-like way for business.

Don't worry about looking dowdy.

Most women look about as well in a well-built tailored suit and well-fitted tailored waist, or simple blouse, as they ever do.

There is a girl who goes in on the same train I do in the mornings, who always wears a navy blue tailored suit, a white shirt waist, and a stock of the latest style, and always has fresh-looking gloves and perfectly kept shoes.

I have heard a dozen men admire that girl's appearance.

Oh, by the way, that sample of fawn colored corduroy braiding to match that you sent me as a suggestion for a winter suit is awfully pretty, but do you think it looks exactly business-like?

Now, don't be cross with me, will you, Joan? Just say, it's only my old aunt.

OLD AUNT.

RUTH CAMERON.

WED AFTER 40 YEARS.

Both Bride and Groom Were Twice Married.

N. Austin Floyd, sixty-three years old, of Carthage, Mo., and Mrs. Viola Newman, fifty-eight years old, of this city, were married yesterday by Rev. E. H. Swann, the ceremony culminating a romance that began forty years ago.

Both the bride and groom had been married twice, but the early love returned, and a third matrimonial venture resulted.

"When one has been married twice, she has no hesitancy about marrying again, especially when she reaches my age," said the bride after the ceremony.

UNIVERSITY SCHOOLS TO OPEN.

Solemn Votive Mass Will Mark Beginning of New Season.

All the schools of the Georgetown University will be formally opened with a solemn votive mass of the Holy Ghost, in Dahlgren Chapel of the Sacred Heart, next Sunday.

Rev. William J. Brooks, S. J., will be the celebrant, and will be assisted by Rev. Mark J. McNeal, S. J., deacon, and Rev. Hugh A. Dalton, S. J., sub-deacon. Rev. John F. Quirk, S. J., will preach the sermon.

LABOR LAW VIOLATED.

Judge De Lacy Fines Owners of Moving-picture Shows.

For violating the child-labor laws of the District, Judge De Lacy yesterday fined Joseph D. Coblenz and Edward Oliver, owners of a moving-picture show, $9 each for allowing Edith Brown, eleven years old, to dance and sing in their theater.

The girl's mother said that she was being trained for the vaudeville stage and received no salary. She said that the child acted with her full consent.

Such defense, however, was not allowed by Judge De Lacy, who strictly censured the violators of the child-labor law. He ordered the child placed in school.

Fall Series Inaugurated.

Grand Master George C. Ober and the officers of the Grand Lodge, F. A. M., began their fall series of grand visitations with a visit to William R. Singleton Lodge, No. 30, in Tennyson, Thursday evening. After the formal visitation, Mr. Clabaugh rendered several solos, accompanied by Mr. Comstock on the piano. W. B. Ireland, who had charge of the programme, introduced the orator of the evening, J. Holdsworth Gordon, past master of Potomac Lodge. Mr. Gordon's subject was "Optimism and Masonry."
